

Buddy and Sandy Thomassen

The Palm Beach Symphony performed a captivating program during its Winter Memory concert at the magnificent Mar-a-Lago Club. The exclusive concert at the emblematic venue hosted a full house of over 650 guests with rousing cheers and standing ovations for the brilliant performance.

Artistic and Music Director, Ramón Tebar, led the orchestra in a program that included pieces by André Previn, George Gershwin and Dimitri Shostakovich, and focused on renewal and a nod to the future. The audience was treated to a new composition by living legend André Previn, Can Spring be Far Behind?, with lyrical melodies and various instrument solos. This was followed by Gershwin's An American in Paris, the popular work drew cheers as the audience was drawn into the powerful and whimsical jazz-like symphony. Finally Tebar hypnotized the audience with Shostakovich's Symphony No. 10, E minor, Op. 93, which portrayed a darker but triumphant emotional work by the Russian composer.

Dale and Marietta McNulty

Karen and Kenneth Rogers

"Our members and guests look forward to our performances at Mar-a-Lago which always provide a memorable setting and evening," said David McClymont, Executive Director of the Palm Beach Symphony. "This year, Ramon and the orchestra delivered an iconic American work in spectacular fashion at this iconic location and completely wowed everyone."

For information visit palmbeachsymphony.org.
PHOTOS: CAPEHART

Bob Merrill and Hillie Mahoney

Drs. Donna Plasket and David Brenemas

Arlette Gordon and Dr. Elizabeth Bowden

Elizabeth Norton and Amy Collins